Supervisor Murphy pegs administrative assistant

Rudolph K. Dettenrieder, 47, former Hayward mayor and a resident of Fremont, is the newly appointed administrative assistant for Alameda County Supervisor John D. Murphy.

Although no official annnouncement has been made, Dettenrieder confirmed Friday his appointment to the county post which pays about $13,000 a year initially.

Murphy of Pleasanton, fifth district supervisor, is attending the Far West Regional Conference of Supervisors in Albuquerque, N.M., as a representative of Alameda County and was unavailable for comment.

Dettenrieder, who said the appointment was made Monday, March 17, added he will "put on ice" his real estate broker's license, which he has held since 1970, "as a condition of employment."

Thoroughly familiar with municipal government and its problems — particularly gas tax formulas for allocations to cities — Murphy's new aide served on the Hayward City Council from 1956 to 1960 and was that city's mayor in 1960 and 1961.

Dettenrieder has long been active in Democratic political activities and has directed election campaigns for Murphy and other political figures in the past. Until recently he was co-owner of a German-style restaurant, Lorelei, and is a partner in Munchner Haus Inc. Delicatessen, both in Fremont. His wife, Clair, is co-manager of the delicatessen.

Self-employed from 1959 to 1967, Dettenrieder was coordinator of St. Rose Hospital Building program in Hayward and helped raise $700,000 from local industries, businesses, professional groups and individuals. He also assisted in winning $1,845,000 for the program through federal and state grants.

From 1968 to 1967 Dettenrieder was general manager of Chesapeake Company, a large commercial development firm in Fremont, and was in charge of the entire leasing program for Gas Light Square, a 15 unit restaurant complex; Town Fair, an 11 acre shopping center and office complex, and 40 other acres of freestanding uses. As Chesapeake manager, he also maintained all accounting records, prepared most of the public relations material and supervised the firm's staff while acting as liaison between principals, architects, engineers and contractors.

RUDOLPH K. DETTENRIEDER

Married and the father of four children, Dettenrieder attended the University of San Francisco where he received a bachelor of science degree in business administration in 1955. His earlier educational experience was in the State of New York where he attended Delehanty High School, Brooklyn Technical High School and St. Matthias Parochial School.

The county authorized supervisors to hire administrative assistants in 1973 on a resolution introduced by Supervisor Fred Cooper of Oakland. Supervisors Cooper and Tom Bates have since hired administrative aides while, Murphy, until now, and Joseph Bort of Berkeley and Charles Santana of Hayward avoided employing assistant administrators.

Murphy, whose large district encompasses the Liver - more - Amador Valley as well as the Fremont, Newark and Union City areas has been criticized in the past for not providing closer contact with the west-of-the-hills portion of his district.

Dettenrieder's appointment and plans to open an office soon in Fremont are designed to answer this criticism and offer closer contact with his constituents in the tri-city area of Fremont, Newark and Union City.

The new Murphy aide is a veteran of the U.S. Navy, 1944-1946, in which he served as a flight radio operator in the carribean area.

LAVWMA seeking muscle

DUBLIN — All of the "alphabet soup" agencies involved in water management planning for the valley gathered at Dublin's Shannon Center Thursday night at the request of the Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency.

LAVWMA is seeking assurances that it will have a voice in the type and amount of planning done in the valley and, after two and a half hours Thursday, it had received at least oral promises of cooperation from the regional, state and federal agencies.

The agencies represented at the workshop included the Environmental Protection Agency, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the State Water Resources Control Board, the Regional Water Quality Control Board and the United States Geologic Services.

In particular, LAVWMA directors wanted to know who invited the Corps of Engineers to include the valley in an urban studies program when there are already scores of water studies either completed or in preparation and which agency will receive the 208 planning agency designation for the valley.

Some LAVWMA directors, Don Miller, in particular, expressed the theory that the Corps had been asked to make the study by the Alameda County Board of Supervisors to give creedence to Harlan Geldermann's proposed Las Positas New Town. Miller is a Livermore councilman and Livermore has most strenuously objected to that development.

Jacob Harari and Bertrand Voss said they had been invited by the supervisors but also by Zone 7, which is the water wholesaler for the valley.

Paul Lanferman of the Zone 7 staff explained that, because there are "still some major flood problems in the valley," the zone had asked the Corps to renew its flood study in 1967. "Nothing happened" with that request until the urban studies program was announced recently, Lanferman added. "We really need flood control," Lanferman said and added that is the "lion's share" of the urban studies program, "wastewater management is the tail."

Harpri added, "Flood control is definitely our first priority" but he said the U.S. Congress had given the Corps authority to look at ancillary problems because they wanted the Corps to get away from "single - purpose studies." Thus, the urban studies program was instituted in 1972.

Reflecting the Corps' primary interest in flood plain control, Harari also said they would form an agreement with the state water board and Zone 7 but other agencies, such as LAVWMA would also be closely involved in deciding whether a further study is warranted.

Archer Futch of LAVWMA said he certainly hoped the local agency would be involved since "it represents 95 percent of the population in the watershed above Niles."

LAVWMA Director Lila Euler said the board had received the impression the Association of Bay Area Governments would be designated the 208 planning agency for the entire nine-county Bay Area.

Jim Gianopoulis of the state water board said, "There is no leaning, as of this moment, one way or the other on 208."

Maid of Dublin '75

Competition boom builds in business phone lists

There's more than one way of publishing a telephone directory for profit, and the enterprising people who have discovered the secret may give Pacific Telephone, the Public Utilities Commission and the people one gigantic headache before it's all over.

The key is the sale of advertising space in those directories. Traditionally the exclusive domain of the "Yellow Pages" in your telephone book, those "business listings" are now the base upon which are built a variety of "local directories." The profits are good enough to attract private entrepreneurs, large corporations and even local chambers of commerce.

As of today, one "Tri Valley Business Directory" is being distributed to "every dwelling and business firm in the three valley communities." A second such directory is in the final planning stages with Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce as the sponsor, a southern California firm as the "co - ordinator" and publisher, and "a strong local image" as the major selling point.

"We're sorry that other Tri Valley directory got out ahead of ours," offers Pleasanton chamber manager Chan Henderson, "because our directory is going to be so much better, and cheaper for the advertiser."

There is in fact a tremendous disparity in the rates charged by each of these publications. A fourth of a page in the planned Pleasanton Directory will sell for $110. That same space in the Tri Valley Directory went for $216. Both of those publications are sold on the basis of "year - around use" of the directory in the home.

A fourth of a page purchased in the Yellow Pages section of your standard telephone book goes for $53.80 per month, or $645.60 for a full year's exposure. That is just for the "Livermore Pleasanton" edition of the phone book, which has primary distribution in those two cities, and secondary distribution in Dublin — where the Central Contra Costa County phone directory still holds first place.

"Advertising in the Yellow Pages costs more because it's a better buy for the Piepenburg, Pacific Telephone's valley manager. "The advertiser knows the directory has to go into every home and business that has a telephone. I don't know what the other business directories promise, but there is no way for anyone to really establish their true distribution figure, now is there?"

(California Pacific Directory, Inc., publishers of the Tri Valley Directory, claim 35,000 total distribution, "every residence and business house in the valley communities . . . but we are still in the process of completing that delivery." Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce will distribute 12,000 copies of that local directory, "to every home and business in the Pleasanton area, plus additional copies for use by anyone who wants one.")

California Pacific admits that "we're in this business because there.s profit to be made." In just over three years, the firm has prepared directories for a dozen East Bay cities, and is now branching into Nevada. California Pacific handles the whole package — ad sales, publishing and distribution.

Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce resolved to, initiate its own directory, "because we can realize a good profit by handling the ad sales and directory distribution ourselves," Henderson explained. If the 30 - page directory emerges as planned, complete with "many handsome photos of the community and a lot of valuable information," plus of course those ads, "the chamber could make around $2000." Henderson adds that the first $7000 of income would go to Far West Fact Books, Inc., the Whittier firm that is co - ordinating the chamber's material, and printing the final product.

Asked how the chamber could be assured of a profit over and above the printing costs, Henderson replied: "We plan to have enough advertising commitments before going to press to assure a profit to the chamber, or else the whole project is cancelled."

There is more, much more, to the business of business directories. Why are advertisers turning to these private sources? How come the Yellow Page rates are so high . . .and how much profit is this one division of Pacific Telephone required to return to the parent firm?

What happens when three, four or five of these directories are being delivered to every home? And what about the ventures in Danville and Fremont that went sour, leaving a lot of people stuck with the bills?

There are answers to at least some of these questions, and The Times will share them with you, in a follow - up report on "The New Boom in Phone Books."

Valley groups' woes hit planners Monday

Three citizens' groups are planning to make Monday's Alameda County Planning Commission meeting a bit more lively than usual as the commissioners are scheduled to make decisions on three somewhat - controversial issues.

The largest contingent of protesters at the 1:30 p.m. meeting in Hayward come from the Silvergate Homeowners' Association is Dublin, where Kathie Waterson had rounded up 206 signatures (out of 225 total homes) by noon Friday and hoped to get more over the weekend.

The homeowners are upset about the proposed development called Dublin Green, which would see 67 clustered, single family residential dwelling units on a 12.28 acre site just off San Ramon Valley Boulevard. The site is sometimes called Church Hill and overcrowding of schools, sewage and traffic are some of the concerns of the protestors.

However, Valley Community Services District reports that the Dublin Green development is on the priority schedule for sewers but, according to Waterson, the Murray Elementary School District has indicated that Nielsen School would be overcrowded by the new homes.

The exact number of Silvergate residents that will appear Monday is not clear but Waterson feels that there will be a representative contingent. "This one they're really united on" she commented and the organizers have all weekend to add more signatures and drum up more support.

The Castlewood Property Owners Association (CPOA) will also make a presentation but president Max Bedell and Ralph Link are expected to be unescorted when they protest an appeal by Bissell and Karn to remove certain conditions from the development of some 90 acres above the country club.

Planners required that the developers put in streets, supply water and sewage service and put in fire hydrants to mark off the four 20 acre lots that Bissell and Karn want to develop.

The CPOA is not concerned about the building of four homes in the area(west of View Drive and Quail Court), but is afraid that once the lots are sold, they will be further subdivided.

"Our concerns are that everything is done within the realm of possiblity so that no water damage is done

Includes tax boost

Pleasanton submits 'cautious' budget

PLEASANTON — City Manager Bill Edgar is proposing a "cautious" $7.3 million budget for the 1975-76 fiscal year, which includes a four-cent tax rate increase and a "pay-as-you-go" $1.5 million capital improvement program.

The city council will have its first look at the preliminary budget Monday night. They have scheduled a study session on the document for March 31 and a public hearing for April 14.

The proposed $5.3 million operating budget does not include any salary adjustments for the coming fiscal year and, according to Edgar, reduces the city's operating reserve to 11 percent (before salary increases), which he characterizes as "an extremely low minimum reserve and substantially below that which is required under modern practices of good fiscal management."

Since the general fund has increased not at all over the previous year, the budget is being balanced through expected increases in other funds, such as Gas Tax, and Cigarette Tax, transfer of $186,000 in revenue sharing to the operating fund and the four-cent tax rate increase.

Under the provisions of SB-90, the property tax rate limitation bill, the city could increase its $1.70 tax rate by 14 cents but, at least in the preliminary budget, Edgar is only proposing the four-cent hike.

Because of the sewer freeze and the resultant drop in traditional revenue sources, such as sales tax, building permit and inspection fees, the city's budgets for the past three years have been austere, barely keeping pace with spiraling costs and demands for increased services.

The 1975-76 fiscal year budget continues that trend, although it does not propose any employee lay-offs despite "accelerating inflation, rising unemployment, increasing prices and insufficient housing starts".

Edgar terms the budget a "cautious financial plan characterized by an incremental approach, a wait-and-see attitude and a pay-as-you-go program of financing municipal services."

The rate of expenditures has increased only 5 to 10 , Edgar states, which is "well below the inflation level."percent over the previous year.

Edgar is recommending the council establish "fairly rigid priorities" for its limited funds but added the council should "reserve the option to periodically review and evaluate the financial situation to determine whether additional programs should be funded based upon the actual revenue received to date."

The preliminary budget includes all of the capital improvement projects recommended by the Park and Recreation Commission except for the third phase of the Sports Park ($100,000) and development of Mission Hills Park ($40,000).

The capital improvement program lists 21 park and recreation projects, totalling $743,783. However, only $42,900 of that figure will come from the 1975-76 budget itself. A ttotal of $156,000 comes from Proposition One money and the remaining $544,883 includes projects funded during the 1974-75 fiscal year from the general fund, gas tax, revenue sharing, capital improvements and park dedication fees.

A total of $576,379 is budgeted for street improvements in the 1975-76 preliminary budget, which has been added to $392,242 budgeted in 1974-75, bringing the total to $968,621.

The street projects include three traffic signals, at Hopyard Road and Johnson Industrial prive, First and Neal streets and Santa Rita Road and Valley Avenue.

Plea set on drug charges

LIVERMORE — Gonzalo Soria Ayala, charged with possession of herion for sale, is scheduled to enter his plea in Livermore Municipal Court tomorrow at 1:30 p.m.

Ayala, 39, a Mexican national, was scheduled to plea Friday afternoon but the matter was contined to Monday, according to court officials.

As of Friday morning, Ayala was being held in custody at the Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center. Bail has been set at $95,000 with an additional $25,000 bail in San Jose.

Ayala and Ramond Duran Jr., 38, of Stockton, were arrested on the same charges shortly before midnight Tuesday in the parking lot of Livermore's Holiday Inn during an alleged heroin transaction.

Bail for Duran was set at $10,000 and posted Wednesday afternoon.

Dance-dance-dance

These young and dedicated hoofers were still going strong Saturday as they continued their unique dance marathon, a 52 - hour effort to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Dancers, volunteers from various valley high schools, solicited sponsors to finance the affair which began Friday evening at Dublin High School and is scheduled to end at 5:40 p.m. today. Some 750 hot meals were donated to participants by Jack - In - The - Box.

Beep ball hits today

DUBLIN — The East Bay Storms, sightless youngsters organized into "Beep Baseball," take on the Oakland Raiders, San Jose Earthquakes, a Green Bay Packer, and a Congressman today at noon at Dublin High School.

Green Bay Packer running back MacArthur Lane has been added to the prestigious list of players, joining the Raiders' Marv Hubbard, Mark Siani and Bob Zeman, the Earthquakes' Johnny Moore, Davy Kent, Art Welch and Mark Demling, Congressman Pete Stark, Jack-in-the-Box and Granny Goose.

Additional entertainment will be provided by the Dublin High School Ban, he Scottish Pipers, Valley Top Hatters, and the Wells Fargo Stagecoach.

General admission is 50-cents, and senior citizens are admitted free.

'Now remember, April 4'

George Spiliotopoulos, left, has a question for Gene O'Brien, but it's definetly not trivial — the date of the big "Trivia Doubleheader" being sponsored by the Pleasanton Lions Club to aid the Lions Blind Center in Oakland. It's April 4 at the Sunol Valley Country Club at 7:30 p.m. Door prizes will be awarded and refreshments served. The Times trivia team will open the program with the feature event pitting the Cheese Factory and Kings X Lounge. Tickets are now available at The Times, 126 Spring St., Hap's Restaurant, BJ Corral, The Players in Dublin and Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce. (Times Photo)

Harvest school's outdoor ed plan doomed

PLEASANTON — Though some parents of fifth graders in the Harvest Park School attendance area have contacted a camp site, school principal Dale Hudson said their were three reasons why they would be unable to participate in the Outdoors Education program this year.

The meeting at Harvest Park Thursday night was informational only, according to Hudson, and came at the request of several parents of fifth graders.

Hudson said the Outdoors Education program, which is in its third year in the Pleasanton Elementary School District, is not a financially - supported district program. Support lays with the teachers and students.

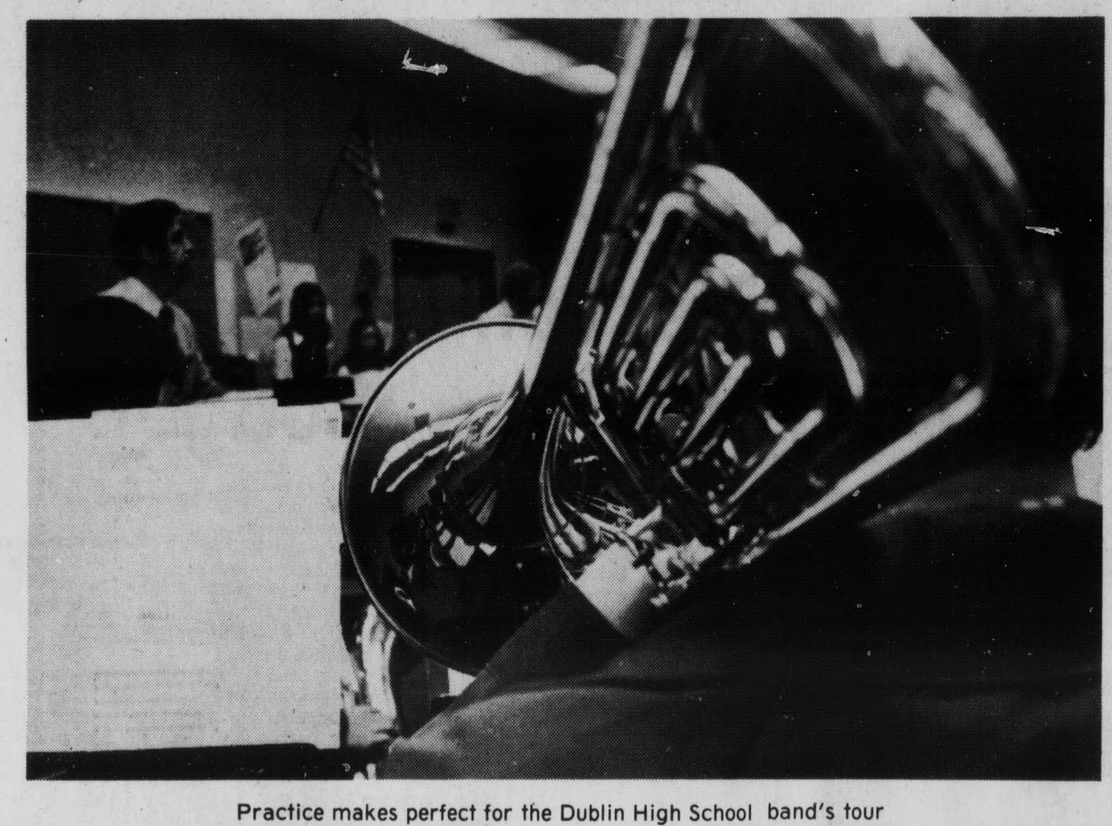

Secondly, Hudson cited lack of a paid and qualified naturalist at the camp site in the Santa Cruz Mountains. He claimed that too much responsibility would be placed on the teachers and said that they had questioned their own abilities in this area.

Hudson added that teachers were concerned about proper supervision, specifically their liability for welfare of the students. There are approximately 120 fifth graders at Harvest Park who could be eligible for such a program.

Director of Educational Services Neil Sweeney outlined what it would cost to make Outdoors Education a mandatory program. Transportation is paid by the district but the $40 per student must be raised via special events or families of the students.

Army Private Michael P. Racine, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Racine, 7881 Fairoaks Drive, Pleasanton, is assigned with the 32nd Signal Battalion in Germany.

Practice makes perfect for the Dublin High School band's tour

Dublin band plans big southern tour

DUBLIN — The Big Band Era may not be back in force, but you couldn't prove it by the Dublin High School symphonic band and concert choir.

Ninety - four members of the band and choir will pile into three busses Apr. 1, for a five day concert tour of Southern California colleges and universities, according to music director Harry Sweet.

Following a quick tack to Solvang for a bit of Scandinavian fare, the group will open its tour with a concert at Santa Barbara's Westmont College.

The weather will get warmer as the musicians head into Pepperdine University's Malibu campus, then trek to the California Institute of the Arts in Valencia.

The climax of their odyssey will be the performance as "Headliner Band" at Magic Mountain.

This is the group's third annual tour, according to Sweet, who hopes the students first hand observations of higher education will play an important part in their lives.

A. Chabot made point in history

Our local junior college system is named after him. So are a lake and a regional park.

But who was Chabot?

Anthony Chabot, the 19th - century entrepreneur who developed water systems in the Bay Area and in Portland and Milwaukee as well, is described by historians as a "man of action," "despotic and unscrupulous," "philanthropic."

He was born on a small farm in St. Hyacinth, Quebec, Canada, in 1813. He was educated in Jesuit college one year.

When he was 14, he ran away from home and spent several years working on a farm in New York, at a tannery on North Carolina, as a plantation hand in Texas, a steamboat crewmam in Kansas and then back to Quebec, in 1838, as a tanner.

When the California gold rush started in 1849, Chabot boarded a charter ship in New Orleans which stopped in Honduras before continuing on the long route to California.

He settled in Nevada City in 1849 and sent for his brothers, Toussaint and Reinhard, to join him to build ditches to supply water for the miners. Within five years, they had also built two sawmills.

Chabot got tired of shoveling dirt into a box to pan gold, and invented a hydraulic mining operation using flumes to bring water into dry digging areas.

Chabot came to San Francisco in 1856 to develop water works for the growing population. He brought water to the city utilizing Lobos Creek by way of a flume from Brooklyn Point and Van Ness Avenue. Water was transferred by pump to a reservoir on Hyde Street to Landbow to San Francisco.

In 1862 - 64, he went East to marry and during the extended trip planned water systems for Portland and Milwaukee.

Returning to California, he settled in Oakland in 1866 and formed the Contra Costa Water Co. with Henry Pierce. He built the Oakland water system from Temescal and San Leandro Creeks and later developed a water system from Los Gatos Reservoir for San Jose and another at Vallejo.

He was president of the Contra Costa Water Co. from 1866 until his death in 1888, holding a majority of the stock until 1876.

He built a large estate on Lake Chabot Reservoir, where he died in 1888.

By the time he died, Chabot's business interests included agricultural manufacturing implements, cotton mills, water conveyor pipe manufacture, pulp mills in Placer, an iron company on Puget Sound, a cranberry bog in Washington, a wheat farm in Pleasanton and an Oriental garden.

Historians describe him as a hard worker and natural engineer with business ability despite lack of a formal education. He was well - read, sober and temperate — also, decisive, despotic, unscrupulous in business deals, courageous and full of initiative.

He founded an observatory and an old people's home.

Play it safe

Aquatic Center Instructor Sue McAllister urges Pleasanton residents interested in taking Junior or Senior Lifesaving and Water Safety Aide classes to during spring vacation to pick up an aquatic brochure at the library, Civic Center or the Aquatic Center. For further information, call 846-3202, extension 215.

Firm plans big project

The modest sign on the side of the building is most misleading.

It says, simply enough, "Tenneco", and an unobservant driver could sPeed right past the old Harper and Row warehouse on Sunol Boulevard without a second glance.

And, outside at least, there isn't much new and different to look at. But there will be.

Tenneco, which is a world wide conglomerate with $5 billion worth of revenue in 1974, has embarked on a $20 million expansion program in its paint colorant division, and Pleasanton is one of three disparate spots that will reap the benefits of that expansion.

The other two are Piscataway, New Jersey and Maastricht, Holland, and the eventual goal is to ''make the company a world leader in the production of colorants."

Colorants are the materials that give paint its color. One product made by Tenneco Chemicals(a division of the overall company) is Colortrend, which in use at many commercial paint stores.

When a customer wants to get a certain shade that he sees in the color catalogue, there are directions on it that specify how many squirts on this color and how many of that will produce the desired tint. The 11 colors that are combined to make the myriads of shades are Colortrend.

But that's only part of the business that Tenneco will conduct in Pleasanton. On top of supplying to retail outlets, the plant will also sell pigments to industrial consumers, who will mix the pigment with paints, acrylics, epoxies and other exotic material.

The Tenneco product can mix with varying "vehicles", or bases, and still produce paint.

The vehicle for most commercial paint is basically glycol, a kind of alcohol used for antifreeze, mixed with fillers and the pigment. That mixing will be done here in Pleasanton, once the $5 million worth of alterations are complete at the Sunol Boulevard plant.

However, the receipt of orders and shipping out of some paint from Pleasanton has already begun, but the 50 employes there now will increase by half again and a railroad spur will be constructed to the site.

The contractor is expected to complete the work at the plant by September and eventually it will produce two million gallons of paint of year.

But that's not all that will be done there. "We'll have an extensive laboratory here for customer service and product maintenance" said Jack Barry, the Business Director for the Colorants Group of Tenneco Chemical.

Twenty chemists will be employed in Pleasanton and will be primarily concerned with color quality. "You want to wind up with the same color at the end that you started out with" said Barry.

And in a business that measures its volume in millions of dollars, the eye is not accurate enough. Tenneco checks out its paint colors by measuring the wavelength of the light ref— lected off the surface that is painted. Too much variation, and it's back to the mixers, where the pigment and vehicle are combined.

Although Tenneco doesn't have the immediate identification that Transamerica or ITT might have, it does make a variety of products that are both important and well known.

Sun Giant almonds and other food products are one branch of the massive company, with pipelines, packages, cartons and land just a few of the other areas that Tenneco has a hand in.

The Chemical division, of which the Pleasanton plant is a part, accounted for $378.4 million dollars worth of revenue in 1974 — and that was only 7 per cent of the company total.

So the massive investment in the old Harper and Row plant will most likely not be abandoned if things don 't go well right off. The $5 million worth of renovations are a powerful argument for not abandoning the project, but when that $5 million is only one tenth of one per cent of the total revenue of the parent corporation, it's clear that Tenneco is in Pleasanton to stay.

Juniors say thank you

Highlight of the recent "thankyou" luncheon hosted by the Pleasanton Junior Women's Club was the presentation of checks totalling $4,680 to two community service organizations.

The luncheon was a gesture of gratitude to local business people and other supporters of the Juniors in their 1975 Mardi Gras fund-raising campaign.

A check in the amount of $1,000, was presented to the Pleasanton Salvation Army Extension Committee on behalf of the Pleasanton Emergency Relief Center, which provides emergency aid for area families including food, clothing, medicine, household furnishings, etc.

Originally called the Pleasanton Township Welfare Council founded in 1951, the organization merged with the small Pleasanton Salvation Army Committee to become eligible for Salvation Army funding. When these funds were unable to keep pace with the increasinq demand for services, the PSAEC turned to the Juniors for help.

Contributions are always needed and may be mailed to the PSAEC in care of Paul Kral, P. O. Box 10, Pleasanton. Donations of canned and non-perishable food are welcomed. Persons interested in joining the committee may contact Shirley Casterson at 846-2051.

The Juniors gave a second check in the amount of $3,680 to Pleasanton Youth, Inc. to help defray costs of the newly-opened youth center, West Wind, of the Pleasanton Recreation Department.

Additional Mardi Gras funds, close to $15,000, will go toward refurbishment of the Amador High School auditorium. About 50 years old, the auditorium is the only Pleasanton facility with a seating capacity of 600.

Officials from the high school, as well as the Juniors, are assessing the needs of the facility so that funds are put to the best possible use.

FUNDS FOR NEW YOUTH CENTER

President Fran Williams of the Pleasanton Junior's offers check to a pleased Jeanne Gill, president of Pleasanton Youth, Inc.

Livermore women host Councilwoman Tirsell

Helen Tirsell, Livermore city councilwoman, will speak on the status of women and legislation concerning women at the April 4 meeting of the Livermore Women's Club at the Carnegie Building.

Helen, active for many years in civic affairs, was elected to the city council a year ago. She has earned a B.A. degree from the University of Iowa, and an M.A. degree in music from Drake University.

A luncheon, catered by Jane Davis, will be served by Elizabeth Lassiter, Audrey Luce and Norma Cook at noon. The meeting will follow.

Decorations will create an atmosphere of spring with an array of flowers, long yellow tapers and white doves in a bamboo cage.

Pert put-ons for Bicentennial

It's later than you think and activities for the Bicentennial will soon be under way.

To make sure you are with the times and not caught "without a thing to wear" to the celebration, patterns for creating period costumes are now availabe at the Pleasanton Library on Black Avenue.

The patterns, donated by the Bicentennial Festival subcommittee, may be checked out a week at a time for use by members of the community in making home-sewn colonial, frontier and Victorian outfits. There are men's, women's, teen's and children's sizes in small, medium, large. If directions would be needed for more than one week, they may be copied on the machine in the library.

Instructions and illustrations for Mexican, Oriental, Native American and European costumes will be added to the library's catalog soon. A bibliography of costume books for original designs also will be available at the library shortly.

A home-sewn costume contest as part of Pleasanton's celebration of the country's 200th birthday will begin in the fall of 1975. Judging and awards will take place in the spring of 1976.

Many events where period costumes would be appropriate are planned for the Bicentennial celebration.

Patriotic - minded persons may begin now to make costumes to outfit the whole family for the festivities.

Time for biking fun — Do your kids know the rules?

With Easter vacation and spring weather fast approaching, children will be taking "bike hikes" with their friends and family.

The Dublin Junior Women's Club suggests that safety-minded moms teach their children to obey biking rules, and place the following list of tips where every family member will be reminded of his responsibility on the road:

1. Observe all traffic regulations — including red and green lights, one-way streets and stop signs.
2. Always ride single file IN THE DIRECTION OF TRAFFIC.

Keep to the right and ride in a straight line.

3. Be sure your bicycle has white lights in front and a state-approved reflector in the rear.
4. Be sure your bicycle is equiped with a satisfactory device to sound a warning — horn or bell, etc.
5. Always give pedestrians the right of way, avoid sidewalks. Use extra care when you must use a sidewalk.
6. Be on the watch for cars pulling into traffic. Keep a sharp lookout for the sudden opening of a car door.
7. Never hitch onto another vehicle, and don't attempt to race or perform "stunts" in traffic.
8. Never carry other riders, and carry no packages that will prevent proper control of the bike, or block vision.
9. Check your brakes to be sure they are operating efficiently. Keep your bicycle in perfect operating condition.
10. Slow down at ALL street intersections. Look both to the right and to the left before crossing streets.
11. Always use proper hand signals for turning and stopping.
12. Don't weave in and out of traffic or swerve from side to side.
13. Always walk your bike across a busy intersection. Select a safe bike route, and avoid busy intersections if you can.
14. Skidding is dangerous. Avoid a sudden skid which might throw you into the path of an approaching vehicle.
15. To protect your property, have your bike licensed and registered. Contact you local fire department for information.

Here's why you should be using hth now that liquid chlorine costs the same.
HTH is more convenient To chlorinate a stabilized 20,000 gallon pool for 40 weeks takes about 65 gallons of liquid chlorine. Or one 75 lb. drum of HTH.
HTH leaves you more fun time Liquid chlorine requires numerous trips to your pool supply dealer, lugging back empties, wasting time and travel costs. Buy one drum of HTH and spend your time swimming!
HTH is more trouble-free Liquid chlorine raises alkalinity rapidly. HTH has only a minor effect on pH.
SPECIAL TRADE-IN OFFER TO LIQUID BLEACH USERS Bring in a case of 4 empty liquid chlorine gallon containers. We'll give you a 5 lb. or 5½ lb. package of HTH (granular or tablets) at no additional cost! We're that sure you'll be back for more.

Burns Cites Six Reasons A REALTOR Should Sell Your Home

"Do it yourself" home selling is not without its pitfalls, and Stan Burns, Realtor/broker with VINTAGE REALTY has come up with six excellent reasons why potential home sellers should always employ the services of a Realtor.

"In the first place," says Stan," a Realtor is in a position to make a complete market analysis of sales of comparable homes in the area and what the individual terms of the sales were. Many people believe they know what their home is worth, but market demand, seasonality of sales, location and many other factors often alter home values, and the Realtor will be able to recommend a fair and reasonable price. The 'do it yourselfer' tends to ask either too much or too little and loses either way."

The second reason for having a Realtor handle your home sale involves the screening of potential buyers. "The Realtor," according to Stan, "knows the buyer's needs, desires and financial situation, and will bring to your home only those in a valid position to buy, not those merely curious or out to get a "deal." (Usually the "deal" means the home seller is offered a price that is what he'd realize anyway after the Realtor's commission is paid; he may come out the same dollarwise, but has had the added burden of waiting at home for those phone calls or for someone to just "happen by" and see his sign.)"

The Realtor is trained in salesmanship. "Not only have we gone to school to learn the details of real estate," says Stan, "But our intensive study of sales techniques has shown us how to get an indecisive buyer to make up his mind. Closing a sale is not as simple as it may seem to the layperson."

"Delicate negotiations are not just found in the area of international diplomacy," points out Stan. "Sale - killing misunderstandings can crop up between the buyer and seller, and the Realtor will be an objective go - between and advisor. Details such as price, terms and possession can create disagreements which can spoil a sale, and the Realtor is skillful in smoothing over or avoiding such entanglements."

Financing can be confusing, and the Realtor knows the ins and outs of acquiring the right loan. "We work every day with all kinds of financial institutions, know their methods and requirements, and, to put it simply, are in the best position to help your buyer find the money he needs to buy your home."

Stan's sixth reason for having a Realtor sell your home is probably the most compelling. "Most people are totally unaware the myriad details involved with putting together a legal contract to sell a home. All the terms of the sale must be carefully spelled out as to what is included and what is not. The Realtor will open the escrow, order the title search, place the loan with the lender, order termite inspections, city reports, just to mention a few of the details of such a transaction, if it is to be carried out properly."

Realtors are well aware that a home is the largest single investment most people make during their lifetime and the Realtor brings trained professionalism to his clients. The Realtor is well trained, experienced, governed under the license laws of the State of California, much as a doctor or attorney. "But most of all, concludes Stan, "he is a professional who brings personal interest to his clients."

H.C. ELLIOTT

Builder Elliott honored

H. C. Elliott, developer of the 1200-home community, Somerset Homes, in Livermore, and Pleasanton's Vintage Hills, has been named winner of the first annual Home Buyers Guide "Builder of the Year" award for Sacramento.

Selection of Elliott for the 1974 award was based on three criteria, according to Arlene Mitchell, editor of Home Buyers Guide:

- The company's outstanding financial success—a 40 per cent increase in sales in a recession year.
- The consistent credibility in the firm's advertising and customer information programs.
- The high calibre of construction and design at Elliott's Sacramento area projects — Scottsdale, Rosemont North, and Oak Creek.

As a home builder for more than 30 years, Elliott has compiled an enviable record for honesty and integrity that is a credit to the housing industry, according to Mitchell.

Elliott is a former president of the Building Contractors Association of Southern California (now known as the Building Industry Association of California) and a past director of the Associated Home Builders of the East Bay.

His firm, which sold more than 520 homes in Northern California last year, has built more than 8,000 homes and multi - family units, numerous industrial and commercial centers, and three mobile home parks throughout the State.

Elliott, whose 28-year-old son, Harry C. Elliott III, is executive vice president of the corporation, is an avid private pilot who travels from project to project in his own twin - engine plane.

Livermore recreation slates rock concert, isle excursion

The Livermore Area Recreation and Park District is sponsoring three upcoming activities for Valley residents, including a rock concert, an all-day bike excursion, and a trip to see "Santana" perform at the Center for the Performing Arts in San Jose.

"Destiny," a Pleasanton rock group, will perform Tuesday, March 25 at the Livermore Recreation Center on the corner of 8th and H Sts. from 8 to 9:45 p.m. Admission is free.

An all-day bike excursion is planned for Wednesday, March 25 to Angel Island off Tiburon. Bikes and bikers will be transported by van leaving the recreation center at 8 a.m. and return to the center by 6:30 p.m.

Bikes will be transported from Tiburon to Angel Island by ferry at a cost of $1.75 per person. An additional charge of $2 per person payable to the recreation district will help offset costs. Any person willing to help transport bikes or bikers is welcome.

A trip to see "Santana" perform at the Center for the Performing Arts in San Jose is scheduled for Friday, April 4. Cost is $7 per person and includes transportation for the 8 p.m. show.

Registrations for both trips can be made by contacting the recreation district office, 71 Trevarno Road, Monday through Friday from 8 to 5.

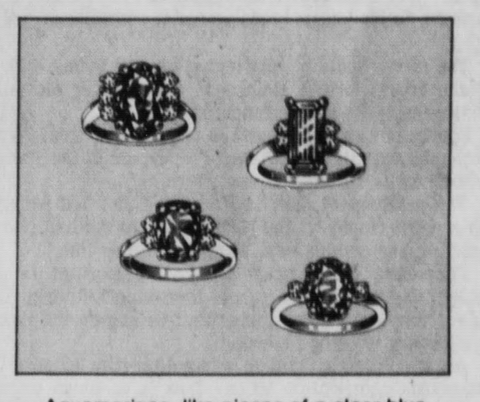

Further information on any of the above items can be obtained by calling the recreation district at 447-7300.

On sports

If you can't be a good sport—don't play!

Mike Zampa

EBAL principals without realizing it have answered the plaintive cries of an Amador Valley High School student.

At a meeting Tuesday the principals agreed to reinstitute a "sportsmanship trophy," to be awarded at the end of basketball season to the rooting section of one school.

It was a move to inject some decorum into the free-wheeling frolic of high school basketball audiences. Crowd involvement is reaching a crescendo with organized pep bands and cheering squads, and clandestine rooters who liven the proceedings with everything from cat-calls to fire crackers.

It may be time to tone down this fever-pitch the EBAL board of govenors agreed Tuesday. They dredged up a an almost forgotten device, the spirit trophy. The trophy was awarded yearly in the EBAL to the rooting section that combined organized shouting with a touch of tasteful restraint.

Liberty High School captured the award for three consecutive seasons, and league officials said; "go ahead and keep it." But Liberty and the trophy have departed from the scene. So the league brass agreed to commission a new trophy.

The news should be heartening for one young lady at Amador High, Carolyn Reinke. It is her public fear that sportsmanship no longer concerns folks.

Source of Carolyn's fear and anger is the local press, which, she says, ignored Amador's success in the stands, to dwell on its survival at court-level.

The newspapers didn't even publish it when Amador won a spirit trophy at the North Coast basketball championships, she complained. "Not one flimsy line."

"Somehow sportsmanship is not important to the public," she fretted in a school newspaper editorial last week. "There are other things that belong on the sports page besides winning or losing."

Amador's spirit triumph was noteworthy because the post-season competition among fans is as tough as that among players. The suburban kids run up against the entertaining soul-trains that chug in from city schools and make the fans squirm and writhe in their seats. It's tough to out-perform show-biz spirit.

"Spirit squads do work hard in preparing for these tournaments," Carolyn wrote. "The newspapers are in existance to report the news, and certainly a line or two could not adversly affect reader interest."

To say that newspapermen are waging losing battles with deadlines when the awards are presented may not assuage Carolyn.

But the decree by EBAL principals should convince her that somebody still has the ol' spirit.

High school musicians on the other hand, may take a different view. There's a rule on the books that limits the size of pep bands to 15 members, and the EBAL agreed to enforce the rule next season. It's part of the overall tone-down.

That could mean belt tightening for a lot of band leaders. Their self-conceived role is to create melodic noise at ear-busting levels. You can acheive more with 20 people than with 15 and so padding was accepted procedure.

"Once the San Ramon kids came to our place, and they were dissappointed when they found out only the home band can play," says Monte Vista High principal Sam Zackheim. "So they played with our band. There were 25 people playing and we had a helluva band," he smiled.

"At Centennial High we had a 24 piece percussion section and for weeks after the game you were reverberating."

The 15-piece rule will have a couple of side-effects, upper-most among them, preservation of the bleacher-bum's ears. The other one, perhaps a negligible effect, will be a boost in the ticket take.

A lot of kids carry instruments into the gym to beat the $2 admission charge. These guys don't know whether or not you use a bow on a clarinet, but it looks good to the gate keeper. Now with the rule enforcement, a band leader has to be sure than anyone carrying a piece, can use it.

The intent of the EBAL in all of this is to keep the lid on high school crowds. With the focus on championships and tournament bids, the competition among schools is strong. That carries over to the rooting sections. The ver-

The Sequoya Eagles ripped the Livermore Hurricanes, 5-0, for the championship in the boys 14 and under tourney sponsored by the Concord Athletic League.

Ballistics United overcame the Sierra Warriors in the consolation contest.

The two-day tourney began with the CAL Wolverines losing to the Dublin Colts, 2-1; San Mateo Juventus defeating the Rancho Cordova Hammers, 3-1; the Hurricanes beating the Sierra Warriors; the Bon Accord Hawks whipping the San Jose Darts, 3-2; the Berkeley Mavericks defeating the Fremont Trojans, 6-1; the Las Vegas Wildcats trouncing the Marin Mayflowers, 8-1; the Sunnyvale Spartans losing to the Tenaya Stallions, and the Eagles blasting Ballistic, 5-1.

In the afternoon, Ballistic defeated the Sunnyvale Spartans, 6-2, the Wildcats knocked off Berkeley, 3-1; the Warriors smothered the Darts, 7-1, and the Hammers dropped a 6-2 decision to the CAL Wolverines.

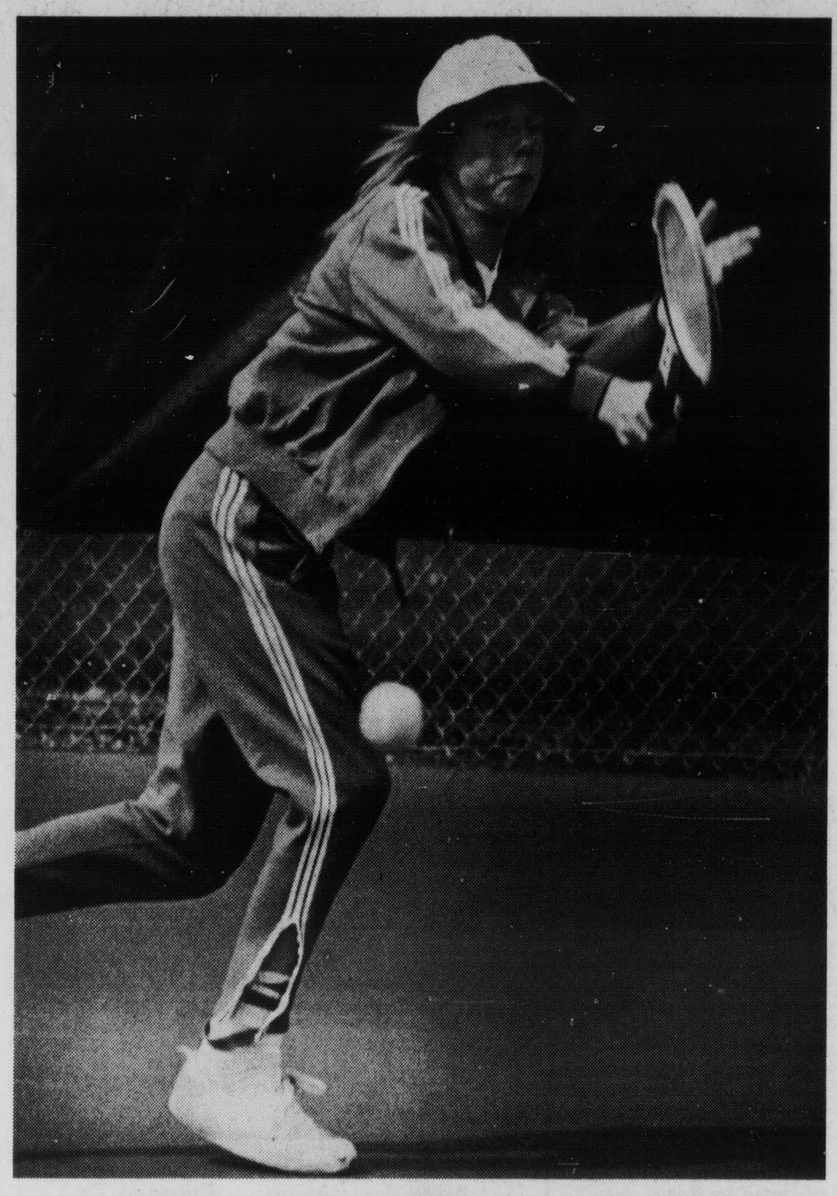

The Eagles went on to win a 4-3 game from the Stallions, the Trojans had an identical win over the Mayflowers, the Hurricans squeaked past the BA Hawks, 4-3, and the Colts pounded Juventus, 8-4.

Second-day competition found Ballistic crushing Las Vegas, 10-0, the Warriors knocking off the Wolverines, 3-1, the Eagles defeating the Trojans, 4-3, and the Hurricanes recording a 4-3 win over the Dublin Colts.

Just prior to the tourney championship game, the CAL under 12 Wolverettes knocked off the Livermore Cosmos, 2-1, to open State Cup play.

Sherrie House and Vickie Taylor had the goals for the winners with Pam Skiles playing well in goal. Others credited with good games were Karen Nickerson and "Stormy" Hart.

Other recent games involving CAL teams found the under 18 Hurricans notching a 6-4 win from the Golddiggers. Lisa Krieshok had two scores, Charla House, Shelly Mann, Frances Rodriguez, and Connie Wadham one each.

Ali defends vs. 'Bleeder'

Muhammad Ali makes the first defense of his recently regained world heavyweight boxing championship tommorow night as an overwhelming favorite to beat Chuck Wepner, a New Jersey liquor salesman.

The scheduled 15-round fight is the second half of a closed circuit television doubleheader. The opening half will feature a 12-round heavyweight bout between Ken Norton and Jerry Quarry at New York's Madison Square Garden.

Promoter Don King predicts a sellout crowd of 22,000 for the title fight, which begins at about 7:30 p.m. PDT.

Ali has said that while he is not in top condition, he is fit enough to defeat Wepner.

The champion is expected to weigh in at close to 225. He weighed 217 when he knocked out George Foreman in Zaire to regain the title which was stripped from him eight years ago when he refused induction into the Army.

The 6-5 Wepner, also expected to tip the scales at about 225, has won his last eight fights but still is not ranked by the Word boxing association or the rival World Boxing Council. The WBX has refused to sanction the bout as a title fight, meaning that if Ali loses, he would still be recognized as the champ by the WBC.

Ali is a prohibitive betting favorite, in large part due to Wepner's reputation as the "Bayonne Bleeder". The journeyman puncher has dropped seven fights due to cuts.

Antioch races today

Three main event winners will be gunning for repeat wins on the fourth and final pre - season Sunday afternoon program for NASCAR hardtops on the state's fastest banked quartermile dirt oval track at Antioch Speedway.

Going for the checkered flag in the 25 - lap feature race for sportsman cars will be Dennis (Fireball) Close, San Rafael; Keith Brown, Pittsburg, and George Steitz, Merced.

Following Sunday's wrap - up, promoter John Soares will swing to regular Saturday night racing beginning March 29, a program that will be supplemented by a wild destruction derby.

As last week's main event winner, Steitz will be challenged by one of three sportsman runners - up in the weekly "grudge match" feature, a best two out of three sprint test at two laps each.

His opponent will be Dennis Furia, who lost a photo finish to the Merced leadfoot last week; track champion Bill Brown of Pittsburg, the third place car driver, or Doug Shearer, the young charger from Antioch who was fourth across the line after the checkered flag was dropped.

Paddy does it

The Dublin Paddys threw up a defensive net around their own goal, and shut out the Ballistic Vultures, 3-0 in spring soccer last weekend.

Playing a hand in the fine defense were Andy Salmeron, Steve McDonald, John Aubin, Robbie Allen, Bill Callender and Chris Davis. Shawn Glieden, Jim Hitcher and David Worthington scored.

The Rams blasted the Mustang Rangers, 4-0, on two-goal efforts by John Danskin and Doug Hegg. Randy Jarrett had seven saves.

David Snyder's nine saves earned the Shamrocks a 3-1 win over the St. Michael's Rams. Jimmy Grant, Rusty Swarts and Jimmy Santos scored.

John Collins, Eddie Lopez, Glenn Miller and Mike Diamond were all instrumental in the Shamrock triumph.

Boot meet set

Dublin United soccer League will hold its general meeting April 15, 7:30 p.m., downstairs at Shannon Community Center.

Purpose of the meeting is to effect changes in the constitution and bylaws, and to elect officers.

All coaches, assistant coaches, elected and appointed officers have voting rights.

Proposed bylaw or constitution changes should be submitted to the DUSL, P.O. Box 2485, Dub., by April 1.

Dublin girls win

Paced by Anne Callendar's versatile afternoon, Dublin High raced by Carondelet, 50-28 in girls track Monday afternoon.

Summer bowling

Granada Bowl has released its summer league bowling schedule.

There are day leagues for women, plus mixed, and men's and women's scratch leagues in the evenings.

Youth leagues will be expanded with leagues Monday and Wednesday afternoons.

Season opens in May and runs through August.

For information, call 447-5600.

Banks 3 wins

Richard Banks' three goals handed the Pioneers a 3-1 win over the Eagles in a makeup Livermore soccer match last week. Goal keeper Lauren Maccario had five saves for the winners, who took over the division lead.

Ted Tonne and Don Nickison played well at halfback, and Dereck Mendonca, Brian Dolan, Wayne Paul, Gary Meyers and Jim Buranis all played well.

Rain holds up Valley sports

The high winds and heavy rain that struck the Bay Area Friday and Saturday left Valley athletes up the creek this weekend as virtually all sporting activity came to a standstill.

Pleasanton's Castlewood Country Club moved the semifinal round of its 1975 Junior Invitational tennis tournament from Saturday to today.

Two high school baseball tournaments also bit the dust, or mud, as it were.

Amador Valley, with sophomore Rob Wicks starting on the mound, Livermore and San Ramon were all slated for action in the Arroyo High Easter Tournament in San Lorenzo.

However, while only scattered showers fell yesterday, Friday's relentless precipitation rendered the Dons Diamonds unfit for play.

The Mission High eggfest was also postponed.

Both the Arroyo and Mission affairs will begin instead on Monday, originally reserved for semi-final play.

Indiana streak over in NCAA

PORTLAND — Kentucky, using two huge freshman centers in a very physical game plan, ended the national championship dreams of top-ranked Indiana yesterday, defeating the previously unbeaten Hoosiers, 92-90, as the NCAA basketball tournament field was reduced to four teams.

As fifth-ranked Kentucky was refusing to bow to pressure in its victory that ended Indiana's winning streak at 34 games, Louisville, Syracuse and UCLA were winning other NCAA regional tournaments. They will join the Wildcats in San Diego next weekend.

Kentucky, 25-4 and champion of the mideast, plays Syracuse, 23-7, in one semi-final game next Saturday. Louisville, 27-2, and UCLA, 26-3, meet in the other semi-final. The winners — with a possibility of an all-Kentucky final still alive — play Monday for the national championship.

The second-ranked Bruins, looking for their 10th title in 12 years, won the West regional with an easy 89-75 victory over Arizona State at the Portland Coliseum. Forward Marques Johnson led UCLA with 35 points.

Louisville, champion of the Missouri Valley Conference, won the Midwest when the third-ranked Cardinals conquered Maryland's press and went on to a 96-82 victory over the Terps in Las Cruces. Guard Philip Bond had the hot hand for Louisville, scoring 23 points as the Cardinals went on a surge midway through the second half to end fourth-ranked Maryland's title hopes.

Syracuse, the 20th-ranked team in the country, won the East regional, 95-87, over Kansas State when Rudy Hackett scored on a five-foot shot at the buzzer, tying the game at 76 and sending it into overtime.

More on sports

bal brick-bats slung back and forth across a gym floors could knock over the sensitive.

The hooting when a player is at the foul line could bring on hysteria. In fact for a player like Ed St. Clair, who shoots 10 to 20 foul shots a game, it could result in a permanent palsy.

High school kids are taking their cue from college fans in this regard, say the EBAL directors. With the advent of free speech and free expression, university rooting sections resemble a zoo, or a North Beach stage show.

It looks like fun on television, but the principals have decided they don't want it in their gyms. "If those college kids start running naked through the stands, they'll be doing it here next," cracked one.

It wouldn't win a spirit award, but it serve the purpose of spooking a foul shooter.

An Editorial

Subsidizing the governmental goof balls

Have you ever stopped to wonder why it is that massive doses of federal and state aid always appear to be directed toward those people, agencies and cities which only qualify for that help because they blew it? Not that you really care, unless of course you are a taxpayer, particularly one residening in the suburban belt where precious little of that federal loot is forthcoming.

The recent authorization of some $200 million in new federal dollars "to speed development of waste treatment facilities" is a case in point. Without wishing to revive that tiresome argument about whether this valley really wants any of those "growth - inducing dollars," still it is interesting — at least from a taxpayers' viewpoint — to note that some $190 million of that total Bay Area share will be directed just toward San Francisco, the city which has built itself into the worst possible sewer mess, taking the least local initiative to solve that problem, and persisting in a high - rise mania even while its sewerage literally runs in the streets and the streams.

That is true to the federal standard for redistribution of tax dollars. There is a curious Washington rationale that suggests "not one cent to help local agencies build for the future. We just bail out old sinners." The United States Corps of Engineers is a particular paragon of this inverted logic. Millions are spent to improve the channel after floods have destroyed property and even lives; but try and get that same bureau to widen a channel in advance of any impending disaster, and your case is hopeless. This watershed in general and the Niles Canyon in particular is a case in point.

The "downtown redevelopment" of our larger cities soaks up millions and even billions in "federal funds." Even though that redevelopment produces more highrises, further aggravating the inner city problems of waste disposal, transportation and even housing, the project moves ahead with Washington's blessing. After all, there will always be more money later on to help that same city "solve the crisis in transportation" . . .low - cost housing, waste disposal or whatever.

We do not suggest that cities such as Livermore and Pleasanton might profit from "federal redevelopment" of our ancient core areas; and we certainly don't encourage importation of all that nasty "federal money" for such growth - inducing items as a sewer plant or a BART line. But, from one taxpayer to another, isn't there something basically wrong with a national policy that helps just those who have steadfastly refused to help themselves . . .while at the same time declining to invest public funds in such far - seeing programs as balanced growth in the suburbs, protection for rich agricultural lands around the urban core, and even a return to the self - contained, self - sustaining pockets of Americana first envisioned by our founding fathers?

Just something to ponder, while you prepare your faithful tax return to the feds, half of which will go to protect us from some unknown outside enemy, and most of the rest to bail out those poor devils in such places as Saigon and San Francisco, where they never could quite get around to providing for the basic needs of their people, even while they roll merrily along still doing their thing, at your expense.

The week in retrospect

Looking at options

In a previous article we looked at one option (of 11) posed by Dr. David Carlisle, the Amador - Pleasanton school district's director of research and development, for reshaping district boundaries.

Today we'll take a look at options 1A through 1D.

The options are being looked at with the intent that one of them will most likely be adopted on or about the date of the May Pleasanton Elementary School District board meeting.

We do not rule out , nor does Supt. Bruce Newlin, those plans promulgated by parents in any section of the district.

There are four goals the district board is working towards and they bear repeating. They include developing a long range plan for housing students, keeping the neighborhood school concept intact, starting all schools at a reasonable time, and providing that any change in the organizational structure of a school will insure continuity of program.

Predicted growth estimates show that the Del Prado area is the most critical locale. If any massive changes in school assignments and transportation are ultimately decided upon, it will almost certainly affect Del Prado families the most.

The strengths of Option 1A, as stated by Carlisle, lay in reduction of enrollment at Harvest Park School . . . to allow less overcrowding of plant facilities. Carlisle also contends that the overflow from Pleasanton Elementary School primary grades can be eliminated, thus creating a more efficient organization at Pleasanton by phasing out the primary unit.

The "weaknesses" of 1A, again according to Carlisle and the district staff, are potential community problems from Del Prado East parents whose children would be transferred to Pleasanton Elementary. There is also the belief that Alisal and Vintage Hills will be overcrowded and need to transfer students out of attendance areas. At the same time, Fairlands and Valley View will be "under utilized."

Under this plan, Pleasanton kindergarten would be transferred to Valley View.

Alisal would house students from Heritage Valley, Mohr-Martin, Amador Estates-Jensen, Willow West and Del Prado. Fairlands would take Komandorski, Pleasanton Meadows, Las Positas plus overflow from Alisal. Pleasanton primary takes in "old town", Pleasanton Heights, Mission Park, Rose Point, Happy Valley and Laguna Vista.

The option also would place 120 fifth graders housed at Harvest Park at Walnut Grove.

The strengths of 1B are listed as the same as 1a.

Ditto the weaknesses. There may be some community problems from Pleasanton Meadows and Las Positas parents whose children would be transferred to Pleasanton Elementary.

The proposed service areas would be virtually the same for the schools mentioned in 1A.

Options 1C and 1D are quite similar. Carlisle says the strengths include community used to present boundaries, elimination of the problem of housing primary and middle school on the same campus at Pleasanton and creating greater utilization of Valley View.

Here again, the weaknesses include potential community problems from Del Prado East parents whose children would be transferred to Pleasanton Elementary.

Also cited as weak points of 1C and 1D are community problems from parents whose children now attend Pleasanton primary, overcrowding at Alisal and Vintage Hills with a need to transfer students out of attendance areas and underutilization of Fairlands and Valley View.

Vintage Hills fourth grade would be at Valley View for one year only. Carlisle says that an alternative plan would be to change Vintage Hills to a K-4 school thus avoiding one move for the children. However, such an option would entail a redistribution of relocatables at approximately $1,500 to $2,200 per unit. Vintage Hills would have to be increased by three classrooms to accomodate this change.

The proposed service areas for Alisal and Fairlands would be the same as in Options 1A and 1B.

Vintage Hills would serve the upper Vintage Hills area, east of Pico and Linden, and have the overflow transferred to Valley View.

Pleasanton Valley fifth graders would go to Harvest Park as would the sixth graders. The latter from Pleasanton Meadows, Las Positas and Willow West would also attend Harvest Park under Options 1C and 1D. The same would be true of seventh and eighth graders plus two areas of Del Prado East.

Walnut Grove would take in K-5 from Pleasanton Valley and 120 fifth graders housed at Harvest Park.

Option 1D has the same strengths as 1C but an additional weakness . . . possible community problems from Pleasanton Meadows parents whose children would be transferred to Pleasanton Elementary.

At least one more community meeting will be held to review the options and consider modifications before a final plan is acted upon.

In the meantime, parents of Pleasanton Elementary School District children should avail themselves of the chance to help bring forth the best possible solution. It is only in this manner that we will continue to have an exemplary school system responsive to the total community.

Letters to the editor

Ravenswood

Editor, The Times:

Congratulations to Ravenswood on becoming a "Point of Historical Interest." As far as the comment that the old wineries are believed to be the only other sites honored in the Valley, we might refresh our memory that Old St. Raymonds Church in Dublin has the honor of being designated "Point of Historical Interest" No. 001 in Alameda County, July 14, 1967 by Historical State Resources Commission and dedicated September 9, 1967. Welcome to the Club!

Letters wanted

Editor, The Times:

I am 33 years old and I am presently incarcerated here at the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility.

I am writing you this letter as an agent of appeal for correspondence and friendship. Loneliness in a place like this is almost unbearable.

My interests are many, my pleasures few, and my hopes are that someone will respond to my request for moral, spiritual and intellectual communication.

I wish to thank you in advance.

Congratulations

Editor, The Times

I would like to express my sincere congratulations to the two new trustees elect, Dr. Geraldine Donaldson and Charles Beazley, to the Amador Valley High School District.

round the town

You wouldn't know it by the content of our news pages, but The Times does indeed have a pipeline to all those wondrous stories that flow hourly around the world, across the nation, and into news rooms everywhere. Our Associated Press teletype clatters incessantly. Gives us all that feeling of "a real news room." But it gives us little else.

Not that the AP stories aren't newsworthy. A publication like the Oakland Trib will fill its pages with those "wire stories." The Times simply doesn't have that many pages to worry about, regrettably. What space we do have is devoted to the local scene. Photos and commentary on such as the Girl Scouts' cookie sales, and poignant responses from those in charge. Of such is the home - town newspaper made.

The wire stories roll off the teletype like so much paper toweling. Reading it provides about the same kick as drying your hands. After pouring through a full day's offering of the wired stuff, interest in the evening metro is deadened. Even Walter Cronkite sounds a little redundant. Oh, they add a splash of color here, a dramatic photo there. But the story's much the same as that flow of words that clattered and stuttered off the AP wire. It takes an editor of some imagination, let me assure you, to make that teletyped roll of paper bounce forward as the front page feature you dare not miss.

We use the wire services to lead us into a story of some local significance . . .hanky panky by our legislator in Sacramento . . .a bill to authorize student smoking areas on campus . . .a new round of federal funds promised for the nation's sewer woes. But for the most part we let the Chilean earthquake slip by, preferring to save our space for the latest round in the school board hassle.

You may have also observed that The Times is unique among the dailies in that our "editorial page" is 100 percent of local origin. The commentary comes from our own staff, or from you dear readers. There are no "guest editorials," no canned comments. Good or bad, The Times' editorial opinions are our own creation.

Fortunately, we are blessed with a number of staff people who are quick with the quill. Al Fischer leans to the conservative side with his signed offerings; Clay Kallam likes to sneak in with the right - now generation's thing; Walt Hecox sort of wanders all over the editorial block and yours truly tries to keep all hands content, including the readers. It's a lively forum, but one that you will find in few newspapers, of whatever size.

Even though we are devoted to the local scene, there is going to be a story missed, an advance notice not given. For such errors as these, we are sorry, and try always to do better. Frankly, it is not "the big front page story" that is overlooked. There are few of them running around, no matter how many black headlines you find, in any of the half dozen publications which clutter the valley's porches on a given day. Much of it is pure puffery . . .the news editor faced with a front page that cannot be filled . . . the reporter told to "get me eight inches on that city sewer even if you have to make it all up." Quite often that is exactly what happens.

I still look back on that quarter century as the editor publisher of a weekly newspaper as the peak of good journalistic effort. We had no choice but to look very carefully at the six days ahead, writing our story against any late - breaking eventuality; and at the end of that cycle, we had to look back at the week, wrap it all up in one readable package, and somehow convince the readers that it was worthy paying for, one year in advance, please. No valley newspaper before or since has ever enjoyed the percentage of paid subscribers that the Times had, or Maitland Henry's Herald had at the peak of their weekly competition.

Now that the Oakland Trib has joined the parade of made - over valley newspapers (we were all desperate for that added local coverage) we are getting a revival, of sorts, in that week - later wrap up. The Trib staff digs back for an old issue, adds a right- now lead, and gives the thing space and position usually reserved for a murdered mayor. But as long as it sells papers, folks.

There is one AP feature that we confess I would like to run in The Times, every day, if space permitted. That's the one where some reporter, from deep in the bowels of a library somewhere in this land, tells the nation what happened on "This Day in History." The lead graph follows a stated pattern . . .

"Today is Sunday, March 23, the 82nd day of 1975. There are 283 days left in the year." From there he proceeds to remind us of those important events that occured on other March 23rds, in other years and centuries past.

"In 1775, Patrick Henry made a plea for American freedom in a speech before the Virginia provincial convention . . . he declared, 'Give me liberty, or give me death!'" Two hundred years later, the same hero would file an appeal with the Supreme Court, and avoid the firing squad throughout five years of legal hassling.

"On this day in 1534, Pope Clement VII declared valid the marriage of King Henry VIII to Catherine of Aragon." We're still paying for that one. In 1868 we began the impeachment proceedings for President Andrew Johnson. He got off, too.

Sometimes the news is sad, or at least disquieting. "Sixty seven years ago on this day, Joan Crawford was born." Joan Crawford? NOT the Joan Crawford of our dreams. Not certainly the slinky one who listened to the violin virtuoso whilst her young lover walked to the sea, and on in. Not THAT Joan Crawford . . . not 67 years old!

I tell you, some history is better dead than read. Maybe it's just as well we don't carry the stupid column.

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

Exactly 37 years ago today this old man — then a very young man — answered a 4 a.m. call from the desk at the Santa Rosa Hotel and drove through a driving rainstorm to Gridley, a bucolic village perched on the banks of the Feather River, and launched his newspaper career.

I remember the date so clearly because it is also my birthday, though I could hardly forget that momentous day. Not all the moisture was outside my model A Ford as I drove over hill and down dale, past Clear Lake and Williams and then the Marysville Buttes to the ramshackle structure which housed the Gridley Evening Globe.

Some of the dew came from the sentimental eyes of the man in this corner who wept for the end of his college days and the parting with a lass named Lois who flitted briefly and emotionally in and out of my young life.

Perhaps the tears would have flowed more freely had I known what waited in Gridley. Not many lads are ushered into the world of split infinitives and fractured headlines by having a pipeload of soot dumped on their innocent heads as they sat down at their desks for the first time.

That is, of course, another story and has been told before. What I am interested in now is the strange coincidence which linked the termination of my employment in Gridley with the beginning of a career which lasted almost 30 years in Livermore.

Not my career, folks. I am the laddie who laughed with some sort of amused and arrogant tolerance when I passed the "Live more in Livermore" sign at the city limits while driving through that municipal infant on the way to the high sierra from LosGatos in the middle fifties.

About the time that ten watt Globe in Gridley was forcing the last flicker of light through its over-aged and much abused elements and the power was being turned off forever, a fellow named Moe Granucci, then office manager for the flourishing Cresta Blanca winery in Livermore, was being talked into purchasing the town's favorite watering hole, an ancient and somewhat dilapidated structure next to Nevin McCormack's Standard Oil service station at the southeast corner of Livermore Avenue and First Street.

Moe didn't really want the bar. Matter of fact he wasn't even called Moe then but by his proper handle which was, in case everyone except Vera has forgotten, Guido.

Granucci, the first laddie from the University of Santa Clara to play football for the Shrine team in its annual New Years Day game at San Francisco's Kezar Stadium, firm friend and former college roommate of a rising young attorney, one Joe Schenone, was a popular man in town.

Folks told him he was a lead pipe cinch to be a success if he purchased the aging pub — the building was aging though the Volstead act had been repealed and prohibition ended only five years earlier.

Against his better judgement Moe purchased the establishment, hung a shingle which said simply "Granucci's" outside the door and before long, if not rolling in chips, was at least taking a comfortable living from the soda fountain.

Moe's first day at the place was almost his last. The muscular erstwhile Bronco tackle assumed command on July 4th, a day when even some teetotalers reject their solomn abstinence for a quick nip of Juniper juice or wheat squeezings while properly celebrating this fine nation's Declaration of Independence.

The valley was a drinking community in those happy days, Pleasanton was supporting almost more bars than people, and most of the good guzzlers dropped in to wish Guido well in his new venture.

Granucci didn't know how to pour or make a drink, outside of maybe a glass of wine or a straight shot with a beer behind which we called a boilermaker in the days of yore.

I wasn't there so I don't know how he got through the day. Let it be enough to say he was sorry for a time he had ever spent his something less than considerable fortune purchasing that kind of hard labor.

Not until early on the morning of July 5th when the blessed time for closing had arrived and Granucci sat down to count the receipts in the wee hours did he realize his move, though involving a considerable degree of patience and hard labor, had been for the good.

Three decades Granucci ruled behind the plank of that aging tavern on First Street. He walked through the last dozen of them with a wooden, John Silver type peg attached to the agonized stump of a leg severed as the result of an automobile accident and repaired with surgery which was something less than adaquate, if you will forgive the understatement.

About 1967 he tore down the old building and erected the splendid structure which sits at the rear of the lot today. Moe — he had become Moe long since having been awarded the handle by a passing motorist who always stopped for a drink but could never remember his name — was scheduled for a short rule around the square bar he had designed for his own as well as his client's convenience.

By the middle of 1968 he had smoked so many cigarettes and built up so much cholesterol in his cardiovascular system there just wasn't room to force another drop of blood through his tired aorta. He died that year and most of Livermore wept because he was a man anyone would find hard to dislike.

Vera took over, Moe's lovely widow, and tried hard for a long time. The burden was too great. Which is why there is a sign on the door announcing acquisition of the esment by Maynard Moreland, Livermore businessman and school teacher who hopes to revive the business and make it once again the the top watering hole in city . We wish him well but cannot help but mourn the passing of a name which has become a landmark in Livermore over the last 37 years.

Good luck, Vera, and you too, Maynard and your brothers and God Bless you, Moe, wherever you are.

For Sunday, March 23, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) "Fun" activities will command most of your attention today. But do heed the little voice that tells you not to make too much of a good thing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're anxious to make some changes around the house. Don't undertake a major renovation. You'll run out of steam before it's finished.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're eager to exchange ideas with others. However, it's best to avoid debate on religion or politics.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You've got a good handle on your financial affairs today but avoid telling another how to handle his money. You could create havoc.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You and your mate may conflict on a topic up for discussion. Don't air your differences in front of others. It will embarrass all.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You are still in a profitable cycle where benefits come from unusual sources. Be wary — one not entitled may demand a share.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Avoid the center of the stage with friends this evening. You'll be much better off staying on the wings.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Someone who is out to get your goat will try to slip in a few barbs today. Don't give him the satisfaction of knowing he irks you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Weigh your words carefully before you speak today. Blurting resentful thoughts will offend companions and provoke an argument.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Have a clear-cut understanding with one who seeks to borrow something. Make known you expect it returned in the same condition — and on time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you don't show your mate the attention and consideration you give others, you'll only hurt yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You are very creative and productive today. However, if there's heavy work required, get assistance before. Don't overdo it.

your birthday

March 23, 1975
You will develop a powerful and influential business contact who will prove to be a profitable asset this year. His goals will be in harmony with yours.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "Here is a simple-looking hand that really is very complicated."

Oswald: "It sure is. A really expert declarer reviews the bidding, decides that East must hold the king of diamonds and leads his king of clubs at trick two. East takes his ace and knocks out South's last high spade. South cashes the rest of the clubs. East must make three discards. A heart and a diamond are easy; the last one impossible. If he throws another diamond, all dummy's diamonds are good; if he throws another heart, South makes the ace and jack; if he throws a spade, South can lose the diamond finesse and still make his contract."

Jim: "A slightly less expert declarer takes the diamond finesse at trick two. If East is either a beginner or an expert, he grabs the first diamond. The beginner because he doesn't know any better; the expert because he sees he can clear the spades and set the hand surely."

Oswald: "Now for the real complication. A player with a little knowledge ducks the diamond. If South repeats the diamond finesse it works out fine for the defense, but South doesn't. He knocks out the ace of clubs and is sure of nine tricks and probably will score ten.

'Laughing Cricket'

Puppeteer, Adela Bonner of Livermore, shown here with "the old lady and old man" puppets, will be taking her Laughing Cricket Puppet Theater Number Two to the Pleasanton and Livermore libraries during Easter vacation. Tuesday, March 25 at 11 a.m. she will be performing at the Livermore library and the same day at 2 p.m., she will be at the Pleasanton library. The theater group is available for performances at schools, parties and other groups by calling, 447-2781.

Social concerns committee in works

LIVERMORE — A seven-member Social Concerns Committee to advise the city council could be in this city's immediate future.

Council at its meeting next week will consider a staff report on the functions, membership, selection procedures and general committee procedures proposed for such a body.

The report is in response to a request earlier this month by Councilwoman Helen Tirsell for a Social Concerns Committee.

Functions and purpose of the Committee, as envisioned by the staff report, are varied and broad. They include advising council on the design, needs and services of the low - income - multi-purpose center to be constructed with federal monies under the Housing and Community Development Act (HCDA).

(The planning commission this week recommended the Livermore Community Park Civic Center site, in the vicinity of the city library and police administration building, as the location for the center.)

Under the HCDA, the Committee also would keep council and the community informed as to the center's services and additional monies available from the federal government for community projects.

The Committee would be the primary advisory body to council on social conditions of the community. It would provide input on local needs, priorities and services to the county-wide Human Services Council.

Complaints by citizens regarding social conditions and needs could be made to the Committee, which would be empowered to investigate grievances and attempt conciliations.

Assistance to the city and local social service agencies in procuring grants for meeting human needs from public and private funding agencies could be yet another function of the Committee.

If council approves Committee formation, it is expected to solicit three nominees from each of about 20 local organizations and appoint seven to the Committee for four-year terms.

Three committee members — to be determined by lot — serve a period of only two years. All members could be reappointed for an additional term at the expiration of the first term.

The Committee would meet at least once a month and meetings would be open to the public.

Members would be selected on the basis on their demonstrated familiarity with and sensitivity to the needs of low-income and minority residents of Livermore, according to the staff report.

They should represent youth, senior citizens, ethnic and racial minorities, women, unskilled workers, low and moderate income groups and service providers.

Any other local organization council deems to have special expertise in the area of human needs also could be approached.

Parking fees return to Shadow Cliffs area

A return of the parking fee at Shadow Cliffs Park and a change in the fee schedule at Del Valle Regional Park have been announced as public use of those two valley facilities is about to enter the spring season.

The popular swimming and boating area at Shadow Cliffs, on Stanley Boulevard, will revive the 75 cent parking fee which is in force throughout other similar facilities operated by the East Bay Regional Park District. That center opens on Saturday for the one - week Easter break.

Del Valle Park, south of Livermore, will offer a wider range of camping facilities, at higher costs. With hookups for trailers and campers, the charge is $3.50 per night; developed campsites with flush toilets, $3 per site per night; private sites, $1.50 per night; group camping, 50 cents per person with a minimum of $10 per group per night. A 50 cent charge is made for each dog, rabies tag required.

Persons entering by private vehicle will pay $1 per vehicle per day. Those entering Del Valle Park on foot will be charged 25 cents. The bus charge is $3. Launching fees include $1 per day for a trailered boat and 50 cents for a car - top boat. Reservations are required for use of all camping facilities.

Sunol Valley Wilderness Park has overnight camping charges of $1.50, up from the previous $1 fee.

Trivia tickets on sale now

Tickets, priced at $2.50 each, are now available for the "Trivia Doubleheader" Friday, April 4 at the Sunol Valley Country Club.

Proceeds from the Pleasanton Lions Club - sponsored affair will go to the Lions Blind Center in Oakland.

There will be refreshments and door prizes.

Tickets may be purchase at The Times, 126 Spring St. in Pleasanton, Hap's Restaurant, the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce, Cheese Factory in Pleasanton, BJ Corral and The Players in Dublin.

The Times trivia team will meet the Tri Valley Herald in the first half of the "doubleheader" with the "world champion" Cheese Factory trivia team opposing the Kings X Lounge from Oakland in the feature event.

Decision is due on new councilman

PLEASANTON — This weekend city council members are hoping to resolve the deadlock that has developed over appointment of a replacement for Assemblyman Floyd Mori so that the new members can be named at Monday night's meeting.

If the council cannot break its deadlock by Monday, they will have to call a special meeting before April 10 to name that replacement. Under the law, the council has 30 days following Mori's resignation (March 10) to name a new member or a special election, which would cost upwards of $10,000, would have to be called.

Planning Commissioner Roger McLain and Park and Recreation Commission Ken Mercer are the two top contenders for that position.

Monday night, the council will also be asked to establish a priority schedule for allocation of the 250 sewer connections allowed the city by the Regional Water Quality Control Board last week.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS
Sealed proposals will be received by the City of Pleasanton at the Office of the City Engineer of the City of Pleasanton, City Hall, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton, California, until 2:00 P.M. PDST, April 4, 1975, for the construction of a building and related site work as per the Plans and Specifications entitled "Cultural Arts Building, City of Pleasanton" prepared by J. Jack Bras and Associates, Architects, 90 Mission Drive, Pleasanton, California 94566.
Plans, specifications, proposal forms and contract documents for this project can be obtained at the office of the Architect upon payment of the sum of ten dollars ($10.00) per set to the City of Pleasanton. This deposit will be refunded upon return of the plans and specifications in good condition to the office of the Architect within 15 days after receipt of bids.
No Bid will be considered unless it is made on a blank form furnished by the City Engineer and is made in accordance with provisions of the Proposal Requirements and Conditions set forth under Section 2 of the Standard Specifications of the State of California.
The Bidder to whom award is made shall furnish performance and payment bonds at the time of signing of the formal agreement. One of the said bonds shall guarantee faithful performance of the contract by the Contractor and shall be executed in an amount equal to the contract price. The other of the said bonds shall be furnished as required by the terms of Section 4200 to 4208 of the Government Code of the State of California, and shall also be executed in the amount of the contract price.
Said Bidder shall secure and maintain such insurance policies as are required and submit evidence that such insurance will be in force for the length of the contract, and shall submit evidence of a valid State of California Contractor's License in the category required for the work being performed, and a current business license to conduct business in the City of Pleasanton, California.
The City of Pleasanton reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive any informality or irregularity in any bid, or to delete portions thereof.
Prevailing wage rates have been adopted by Resolution No. 73-59 by the City Council, and are on file with the City Clerk. It will be necessary for a notice of the existence of said resolution to be provided to each employee who works on the project or post the notice in a conspicuous place at the job site.
A Statement of Financial Responsibility, Technical Ability and Experience, and a list of Subcontractors shall accompany all proposals. Failure to furnish such statements may result in rejection of the proposal. Forms for these statements will be furnished by the City Engineer.
